GOTTLIEB PITCHES WELL

Central Touches Up Stenographers'

Pitchers for a Total of Seventeen Safeties.

Central ran away from the Business team in the game played at the American League Park in the high school series yesterday afternoon, winning by 16 to 5. Sam Gottlieb was on the slat for the winners and, despite the fact that he received very poor support, got way with his game in great style. In Defeats Hartwell in Finals of April the pinches he was almost invincible.

While he was doing yeoman service, Carl Wassman, twirling for Business, was having his troubles. Everything he uncorked was landed on, the Cenral team getting a total of seventeen hits netting twenty-five bases. Belcher and Gerardi, shortstops for their respective teams, outdid themselves in the field, each making several sensational stops which cut down runners at third and at the plate.

Gottlieb fanned thirteen and several of the hits made from his delivery were feature.

In telling of the victory, Johnny McTaggart, who rode, must not be forgotten, for his finished riding had considerable to do with the score.

Kewessa did not show his usual dash siderable to do with the score.

Kewessa did not show his usual dash leaving the post, but McTaggart was lucky to find room on the inner rail, and from the five-and-a-half-furlong starting pole, to the first turn he dashed through and leaving the backstretch he was showing the way.

There McTaggart very wisely took hold of the son of McGee and he rated him along all around the bend, saving something for the run through the stretch. Making the turn for home Burlingame shot Flittergold in on the rail and there it seemed certain that he would come on to victory. But McTaggart, riding in his very best style, and without once going to the whip, kept Kewessa going to win by a very narrow margin.

McTaggart Outrides Burlingame.

Through that last furlong McTagart made a show of Burlingame, and, with riders reversed, Flittergold unquestionably would have been the win-J. J. Lillis outlasted the others to take third, but he was a very tired horse at the end. The race will do him a world of good, and he is worth Special Dispatch to The Star.

NATIONALS' RALLIES CUT SHORT BY

PLAYS OF YANKEES

Magee, with a good lead, tried to steal second, but John Henry and Mc-Bride got him so easily that he was yards from the hag when he tried to slide. The two stolen bases credited to Gedeon were with men on third in a state when it was not thought safe to take a chance with a peg to second for fear of giving the man on third a chance to score.

It is encouraging to note that the Nationals are improving in their hitting with every game. Their performance with the stick today was one of the best they have shown this spring, and it is likely to improve as the season progresses. Every one of the three pitchers who have been shown here has delivered the goods; has shown that the defensive strength of the twirling department is going to be of the highest grade, as the twirlers get themselves into their best form as they go along.

Ray Morgan was charged with his first errors today, ut both of them were excusable. In relaying Jamieson's throw from right in the first inning the ball did not bound truly and he had to be charged with an error. He got another one of a similar nature when he picked up Gedeon's scratch hit in the second and threw it poorly to McBride. Morgan is playing good ball in his position, and he hit the ball hard today, though he is not credited with any hits.

Baker is playing a better game of ball at third than he used to, but this is principally due to the fact that the grounders are bounding nicely to him and he has really not had a difficult chance. When the grounds get hard later in the season it will not be so easy for the "home-run king," for then it will require a lot of speed in coverit will require a lot of speed ing ground to get in front of hard-his

It would not be at all surprising if the prediction that Baker would tablish a new home-run record on the local grounds because of the short field in right would fail to materialize Auburn Wins Double-Header.

ATLANTA. Ga., April 15.—Heavy hitting coupled with errors by the Georgia Tech in the first game and Sugga' pitching in the second enabled and all the successful. and be successful.
